Welcome and hello!

We're the project team behind the new development on Buxton Street, including Tower Hamlets Council and Archio. Our aim is to build 3 high quality, sustainable, 100% social rent homes, in line with the council's commitment to build 4000 social homes for rent and help address the shortage of affordable homes in the borough.

Tower Hamlets selected the site of the disused Thomas Buxton premises manager's house for development with a focus on providing family homes. Our aim is to promote health and well-being of the residents and build places that people feel proud and safe to live in.

We are now developing our designs for these homes and have organised this event to meet with residents, get to know you, and tell you about our proposals. As we are preparing to submit for planning permission, the aim of this event is to discuss any questions you have about the homes and to hear your feedback.

What's happening here?

The London Borough of Tower Hamlets has appointed Archio architects to develop proposals for three family-sized homes for social rent, just off Buxton Street. A planning application is currently being prepared to demolish the existing disused former premises manager's house and redevelop the site to help meet the Council's need for larger affordable family homes across the borough. The proposals have been carefully designed to respond to the surrounding context, creating a strong relationship with the existing properties along Buxton Street while delivering new high-quality, sustainable places to live.

We are hoping to make homes for 3 households

Who we are

Hello! We're Archio, a team of architects with over a decade of experience of working closely with local residents like you to create new homes and neighbourhoods. We believe that the people who know an area best are the ones who live there, which is why we put local knowledge and community voices at the heart of what we do. By listening to, and working with neighbours we have found there is almost always a way through the challenges that enable us to house those in need whilst supporting existing communities.
